U.S. Brands Castro Liar

Cuban Woman Diplomat Quits U.N. Delegation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States Friday denounced Prime Minister Fidel Castro before the United Nations as a liar and tyrant openly welcoming Communist intervention in Cuba's affairs.

Publication of a blistering 9,000-word indictment of Castro coincided with the defection of a woman member of Cuba's U.N. delegation who accused Castro of transforming her country into a terror-ridden police state.

Miss Teresa Casuso, who holds the rank of ambassador and alternate representative to the United Nations for Cuba, described Castro as a "man of war" and said if free elections were held in Cuba he would lose.

She told reporters she sent a 15-page letter of resignation to Castro, whom she described as imbued with great personal hatred of the United States.

Reply To Castro Charges

Chief U.S. Delegate James J. Wadsworth circulated the indictment of Castro as an official U.N. document replying point-by-point to charges leveled by Castro against the United States in his marathon assembly speech of Sept. 26.

The United States labeled Castro's speech as a mixture of "unfounded accusations, half-truths, malicious innuendoes, and distortions of history—all aimed against the historic friendship between Cuba and the United States, a friendship which he seems anxious to destroy."

Then, in detailed rebuttal, the United States singled out more than a dozen specific charges made by Castro and followed this up with a detailed, hard-hitting reply.

Highlights included: 1. Castro and his leaders have launched a war of nerves against U.S. authorities at the big U.S. base at Guantanamo with the intent of inciting Cubans to attack the base and thus provoke an incident.

The United States described as "totally false" Castro's charges that officials at the base are enemies of the Cuban revolution.

Anti-U.S. Propaganda

2. Cuba is making anti-U.S. propaganda in charging that the United States has thrown open its gates to "murderers and blood-thirsty criminals" from Cuba. This is attested by the fact Cuba has never requested a single extradition of the alleged "war criminals."

3. The United States described as absurd Castro's charge that it committed economic aggression by reducing Cuba's sugar quota. There are ample grounds for belief Cuba set out to provoke the United States to reduce the quota in order to justify the charge—but at a very considerable economic cost to the Cuban people.

4. Cuba has not paid a single cent for any lands seized by the Castro regime in defiance of all recognized principles of international law.

Ike Schedules Speech

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower will fly to Staunton, Va., on Thursday, Oct. 27, for a non-political speech at Mary Baldwin College, the White House announced Friday.

Pact Negotiations Set

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet foreign trade minister, Nikolai Patolichev, will visit New Delhi, India, next week to negotiate a Soviet-India trade exchange for 1961-63, Moscow radio reports.

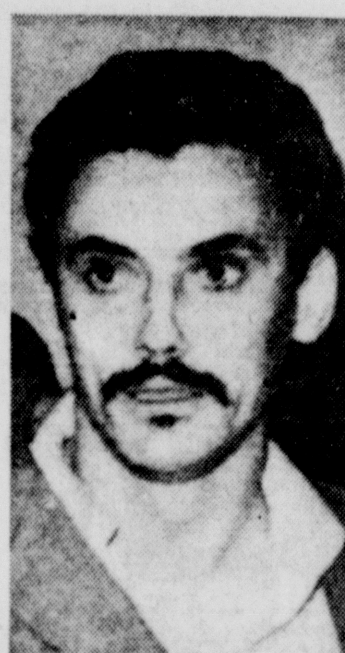

Two American Tourists Expelled By Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union told the United States Friday it has expelled two American tourists whom it accused of having gone into a forbidden zone along the Soviet frontier near Czechoslovakia.

The State Department said the U.S. Embassy in Moscow expressed concern over the fact Soviet authorities had ignored repeated U.S. inquiries for information about the two men who had been missing since August.

The two are Harvey C. Bennett of Bath, Maine, and Mark I. Kaminsky of Jefferson Township, Cass County, Mich.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry advised the U.S. Embassy that they were put out of the U.S.S.R.

Eisenhower Celebrates 70th Birthday

Ike Sets Record, Attends Big Party, Takes Dig At "K"

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower celebrated his 70th birthday Friday by setting a record, going to a huge party, and confiding that approaching retirement terrifies him. And he took a dig at Nikita Khrushchev.

It was a day which found Eisenhower choked with emotion at times but happy through it all, and busy with thoughts of how active he's going to be after he leaves office next Jan. 20.

The record he set was this: He is the first man to reach the age of 70 while serving as president of the United States.

The birthday party he went to was given by the District of Columbia government on the White House lawn. About 6,000 turned out to sing, "Happy birthday, dear Ike" and to cheer as he helped plant a memorial oak tree, gift of the community.

"Eisenhower Day"

It was Dwight D. Eisenhower Day in the nation's capital and the official proclamation praised the President as "one of the greatest soldiers and statesmen of his time."

The job at Soviet Premier Khrushchev came in the President's informal talk at the party. Eisenhower didn't name the Kremlin leader whose ill-tempered tirades shattered United Nations' decorum, but there was no mistaking who he meant when he said:

"We must never—in spite of all the provocations of personal deportment or open or veiled threats as to our existence—we must never be discouraged from achieving those friendships and that kind of cooperation in the world that will eventually lead to the result for which the world has so long longed."

Ike Thanks Crowd

The President, his voice breaking a bit, thanked the crowd for having "found the time to come in on a 70th birthday of mine and by your presence give me encouragement and strength for the paths that still lie ahead."

He received scores of gifts, but it is likely one delighted him more than all the others. On the White House lawn as the President was shaking hands all around, a small girl gave him a golf ball and some tees in a box inscribed: "World's Greatest Golfer."

"Why, you sweet thing," Eisenhower exclaimed while patting the youngster on the head. "Thank you very much."

Youths Attack Congo Official

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A crowd of pro-Lumumba youths pounced on the vice president of the Congo's provisional government commission Friday, beat him mercilessly as he left a hotel news conference, and tried to lynch him.

The attack on Albert Ndele, one of the most promising of the young commissioners, came soon after Congolese troops were called off their guard watch of ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba's residence. This left Lumumba free to resume political agitation.

Two unarmed Moroccan officers were near the assault scene. A lone Ghana soldier of the U.N. force, on duty outside the exclusive Memling Hotel, watched the screaming attack with his automatic rifle slung on his shoulder.

He lowered it toward the fist-swinging youths near the end, making them scatter, as Ndele reeled from serious injuries and a deep head wound that drenched him in blood.

George Whitman, a New York commercial diamond merchant, helped Ndele back inside the hotel.

There was no immediate explanation for lifting the guard that has kept Lumumba a political prisoner. Col. Joseph Mobutu, the army commander who took leadership away from Lumumba last month, set up the government commission, was celebrating his 30th birthday at his villa in Camp Leopold II.

Falling debris crushed Elmer L. Bauder, 46, Leavenworth, a prison employee who supervised operation of the slaughter house by a prison work corps. He was the father of six children.

Convicts digging through the debris also found the bodies of prisoners Ennie Megale Beley, 39, Houston, Tex., and Burley Wayne White-Feather, 29, Cherry Hills, S. D.

Playwright Stricken

TORONTO (AP)—Playwright Moss Hart suffered a heart attack in his hotel room Friday in the midst of revisions on the Broadway-bound Lerner-Loewe musical "Camelot." He was taken to a hospital where his condition was described as satisfactory.

Ike Rushes To Rescue

President Eisenhower rushes toward a toppling fence on the White House grounds yesterday as children well-wishers crowd against the barrier. The fence was righted without the President's help. Secret Serviceman James Rowley is beside the Chief Executive, who became the first man to reach the age of 70 while serving as president of the U.S.

Disarm Plan Placed Before U.N. By West

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Britain, Italy and the United States handed in a resolution Friday night that would have the U.N. General Assembly urge that disarmament negotiations be resumed as soon as possible.

They proposed that the negotiators start by agreeing on partial measures leading toward the goal of general and complete disarmament under effective international control.

Their resolution, in preparation for days, competed with the one Soviet Premier Khrushchev gave the assembly Thursday, calling for conclusion of a treaty for general and complete disarmament as soon as possible. The two proposals also differed on details of control.

Meanwhile, Britain submitted a separate resolution by which the 99-nation assembly would recommend that technical experts be appointed right away to work out ways of checking on various steps in disarmament and report the results to the U.N. Disarmament Commission within six months.

The resolution offered by the three nations omitted a key part of Khrushchev's resolution—the idea that disarmament could not take place unless the U.N. Secretariat and Security Council were reorganized so as to give Communist, Western-allied and neutral countries an equal voice in running any postdisarmament U.N. peace forces.

All this set the stage for the disarmament debate expected to start next week in the assembly's Political Committee. The object was to get the East-West negotiations going again that broke down with a Communist walkout in Geneva last June 27.

The United Nations relaxed, meanwhile, after Khrushchev's stormy 25-day visit. But the General Assembly, at a morning meeting, heard a warning that his cold-war tactics had increased the danger of a shooting war.

Eric H. Louw, South African foreign minister, told the 99-nation assembly this danger would continue unless Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States settled things at a new summit conference.

Three Men Die In Prison Blast

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (UPI)—Three men, two convicts and a civilian supervisor, were killed Friday in an explosion that shattered an outbuilding at the federal prison here.

The blast, which knocked out three walls and the roof of the prison's livestock slaughterhouse, caught a detail of minimum-security prisoners and their supervisor changing clothes in preparation for the day's work.

Falling debris crushed Elmer L. Bauder, 46, Leavenworth, a prison employee who supervised operation of the slaughter house by a prison work corps. He was the father of six children.

Convicts digging through the debris also found the bodies of prisoners Ennie Megale Beley, 39, Houston, Tex., and Burley Wayne White-Feather, 29, Cherry Hills, S. D.

Weather Outlook For Next 30 Days

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Weather Bureau said Friday its 30-day outlook for mid-October to mid-November calls for temperatures to average above seasonal normals in the southeast quarter of the nation and also along the West Coast.

Below normal temperatures are predicted for the central and southern portions of the western plateau and Great Plains. In unspecified areas the bureau said, near normal temperatures are indicated.

Precipitation is expected to exceed normal over the western two-thirds of the nation except for subnormal amounts along the West Coast and in the Northern Plains. Over the eastern third of the country about normal rainfall is indicated except for subnormal amounts east of the Appalachians.

Device Detects Space A-Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States announced Friday development of an experimental device offering possibilities for detecting nuclear explosions far out into space.

Chairman John A. McCone of the Atomic Energy Commission said the device—called a "ground-based radiation detector"—has been in test operation for the past two weeks at Los Alamos, N.M. An AEC spokesman told a reporter that instruments of this type are expected to be capable of detecting a nuclear explosion "tens to hundreds of thousands of miles in space, depending upon the size of the shot."

The instrument, developed by the Los Alamos scientific laboratory, is designed to detect visible fluorescence in the upper atmosphere such as might be created by radiation from a nuclear explosion, the AEC said.

The instrument uses a narrow band filter and an optical detector mounted behind a wide-angle lens. The design resulted from an analysis of atmospheric radiation data obtained in the high-altitude nuclear tests in the Pacific during the summer of 1958.

C Of C Urges Employer Health Plans For Retired

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Chamber of Commerce Friday called on employers to furnish postretirement health insurance care for all employees to ward off "a compulsory system financed by higher Social Security taxes."

The chamber said it is adopting this affirmative new policy because the issue of providing medical care for the aged through Social Security is sure to come up again in Congress next year.

"Successful private plans will provide the chamber with the evidence it needs to combat the compulsory approach," the chamber said, adding that it had helped defeat such a Social Security health plan in Congress this year.

The businessmen's organization, publishing its views in its weekly newsletter, Washington Report, said postretirement health care

Castro Regime Nationalizes 382 Companies

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro's left-wing government Friday nationalized 382 foreign and Cuban-owned companies, thus seizing control of the island's major commercial and industrial operations. The vital sugar industry was brought completely under state ownership.

Continuing a relentless assault on private enterprise, the Cabinet ordered the expropriation of 104 Cuban and one French sugar mill, all Cuban banks and a large variety of other businesses, from rum to railroads.

They are worth hundreds of millions of dollars, but nothing was said about payment.

The two nationalization decrees, one covering banking and the other industry, were studied with accusations that business had acted in concert with "international financial imperialism" to stymie Castro's revolutionary programs. The decrees also proclaimed the need for state-run collectivization of the Cuban economy. They said business in Cuba had sabotaged production, withdrawn money without adequate reinvestment and abandoned its management duties.

In case they missed anything, the ministers authorized the National Planning Board to nationalize any companies which fit into the pattern of the latest expropriations, or to withdraw government intervention under which the government operates a business but does not take title outright. Nationalization decrees take care of that.

The U.S. Embassy said about 20 U.S. firms were nationalized, including Consolidated Railways, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Du Pont Interamericana Chemical Co.

The bulk of U.S. investment here, totaling about a billion dollars, has been seized.

The bank decree promised stock and bondholders a maximum of 10,000 pesos—$1,000 at the official rate—in cash and the rest in 15-year bonds carrying two per cent interest.

Mother Hammers Four Youngsters

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—The wife of a prominent Charleston business executive apparently went berserk in her home Friday and bashed her four small children repeatedly on the head with a hammer.

Two of the children were reported in critical condition at a hospital. The others were said to be in serious condition. Three of them had fractured skulls. The other had internal injuries from stomach and head blows.

The mother, Donnie P. Prohaska, 31, was found by officers lying in a marsh some distance from the family home in the Hanahan district of Berkeley County, near here.

She was incoherent and was placed in the psychiatric ward at the Medical College of South Carolina Hospital.

Mrs. Prohaska and her husband and children were runnersup last May in the South Carolina finals of a contest to pick an All-American family.

The husband is John W. Prohaska, vice president of the Charleston Rubber Co. His father is chairman of the board.

Would Wage Three-Point "Offensive"

"No New Munich," GOP Nominee Says In Policy Address

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon got a tumultuous, caravan-stopping welcome in downtown Los Angeles Friday and later announced a three-point "all-out offensive for peace and freedom."

The Republican presidential candidate said in a speech prepared for a dinner program that President Eisenhower is ready to work after he leaves the White House for peace and freedom.

In what was billed as a major foreign policy talk, Nixon declared: "There is to be no new Munich."

He outlined three specific proposals he said would implement a peace-freedom offensive if he is elected. They consist of three conferences with: 1. The nation's defense leaders. 2. Men and women representing a cross-section of American life. 3. Leaders of the heads of governments of free nations.

Aides called Nixon's noon-hour business-district tour one of the wildest and most enthusiastic of the campaign. Police often had to use brute strength to force back throngs that surged toward the slow-moving motorcade.

Nixon later spoke at the Beverly Hilton Hotel to the World Newspaper Forum, sponsored by the California Newspaper Publishers Association.

Of Eisenhower, Nixon said: "I am happy to be able to tell you tonight that . . . I would have available the wise guidance and rich experience of President Eisenhower. . . . He will remain ready—after leaving the White House—to continue his heroic work for peace and freedom."

Outlining what he called his peace offensive Nixon said he would if elected:

1. "Convene a council of our defense leaders—the civilian secretaries of defense, Army, Navy and Air Force, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the commanders of our major military organizations at home and overseas. I would direct these leaders to re-examine the implications both of Soviet policy and the rapid pace of technological change and to re-evaluate . . . the long-pull defense policies which, under President Eisenhower's leadership, have kept the peace with honor for the past 7 years."

2. "The next president—before he takes office—should convene an extended meeting with perhaps a hundred men and women representing a cross-section of America's life. I would call such a meeting for the first week of December."

He said the group would pool its knowledge and make recommendations to the incoming president on how to best use the country's resources in the cold war. "I am confident," Nixon said, "that such a mobilization of America's brainpower and heartpower would have a significant impact on the course of the global struggle."

3. Call a series of regional "conferences of state—a bringing-together of the heads and leaders of government of all the free nations of Europe, Latin America, Africa and Asia."

Under this final heading, Nixon said he would ask NATO governments to consider still closer ties for mutual defense and mutual benefits.

Cuban Thug Seized As Slayer Of Girl, 9

NEW YORK (AP) — A Cuban thug with one of his hands missing was seized Friday as the pro-Castro slayer of a young girl during an outbreak of political terrorism last month.

Francisco (The Hook) Molina, 28, was found hiding in a closet in the Queens home of another Cuban when police and FBI agents closed in on him after a three-week search. Although described as dangerous, he offered no resistance.

Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy said Molina admitted being in a Latin-American restaurant on Eighth Avenue near 51st Street last Sept. 21 when Magdalena Urdaneta, 9, was shot to death. However, Molina denied any involvement in the political brawl that was climaxed by gunfire.

Council Group To Act Oct. 25 On Jobless Law

BALTIMORE (AP) — A legislative committee investigating Maryland's jobless insurance law will decide Oct. 25 whether to recommend two key changes in the act, the chairman of the group said Friday.

The proposals will come before the Judiciary Committee of the Legislative Council, and if approved be submitted the next day to the full council.

Sen. Frederick C. Malkus, D-Dorchester, said the proposals to be acted on call for a variable duration formula for weekly unemployment benefits and a change to provide restrictions on jobless benefits offered seasonal workers.

Under existing law, payments are available to qualified workers for a 26-week period. Under the proposal before the committee, a new formula would provide for variable periods of payments ranging from 18 to 30 weeks.

Seasonal workers now can collect jobless pay after seasonal work is completed and part-time employees have been laid off. The new proposal would restrict payments to seasonal workers who are jobless only during the normal period that employment is available.

Dissension In ROK Military Deployed

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The American commander in Korea issued a warning Friday against what he called dissension in the South Korean armed forces.

Deploing retirement of several top Korean military officers since the collapse of the Syngman Rhee regime in the April revolution, Gen. Carter B. Magruder, commander of U.N. and U.S. forces in Korea, said, "The most critical question that Korea now faces is how can she maintain the confidence of her allies and of her own people in her own armed forces."

Efforts By U.S. In Laos Crisis Apparently Fail

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma said in effect Friday U.S. attempts to solve the Laotian crisis have failed.

J. Graham Parsons, the U.S. government top Far East expert, gave the impression, by declining to answer questions about the situation, that this is true.

The Laotian premier told the United States earlier he would not change his policy of neutrality and, if the United States does not like it, he will have to seek assistance elsewhere — obviously having the Soviet Union in mind.

Parsons said in effect that if Souvanna wants to be neutral with the Communists he can go ahead and try but that's not the way the Communists play the game.

The impasse in the discussion between Souvanna and Parsons dramatized the possibility that the United States might abandon Laos to the Communists, with an alternative of throwing its weight behind a rival right-wing Laotian regime, thus risking war with the Communists.

Youth Admits Killing Mother

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Quiet, withdrawn Roger Vukovich, an only child who lived in a supernatural world of his own, was charged in Justice Court Friday with the first-degree murder of his widowed mother.

In a city jail cell, Vukovich observed his 20th birthday.

Late Thursday afternoon he signed a confession that he had killed Selma Vukovich, 57, after trying unsuccessfully to hire out the slaying to a close friend for a reported $1,000. The friend shrugged the offer off as a joke.

Detective Capt. Robert J. Drast said Vukovich confessed in writing that he struck his sleeping mother on the skull with the blunt end of a hatchet, carried her from her bed and pushed her down a steep flight of basement stairs.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Department of Public Improvement said Friday it expects to call for bids in mid-December on construction of a new Motor Vehicles Department headquarters in Anne Arundel County. The office will be located on a 13-acre tract on Ritchie Highway, near Glen Burnie.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Parked automobiles were the subject of an arsonist's attack Friday in suburban Anne Arundel County communities. Within an hour's time, Brooklyn and Linthicum fire departments reported blazes inside four cars. The front seat of another was slashed and the convertible top of a sixth was sliced in three places.

GOP Elector In 1952 Supports Kennedy

BALTIMORE (AP) — As a Republican presidential elector in 1952, Jesse T. Dell cast his vote for President Eisenhower. Friday, Dell said he is supporting Democratic Sen. John F. Kennedy.

Dell said he is still a Republican although he is not supporting the Republican nominee, Vice President Richard M. Nixon. He said he is supporting Kennedy because "I am disappointed by the Eisenhower administration."

Chiang Government Hits Kennedy's Island Views

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The news conference by Foreign Office spokesman James Shen.

The issue of whether the United States should defend the two tiny islands first came up a week ago in a television debate between Kennedy and Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon.

Chiang's government has never asked that U.S. forces take direct part in defending Quemoy and Matsu, the statement here said, adding: "We are fully intent to continue to do our own fighting on these islands of ours."

Rear Adm. Liu Hsiang-tu, chief of the Nationalist Navy, said the Nationalists need only U.S. moral and logistic support. Kennedy's assertion that the islands cannot be defended was termed "ridiculous" in the statement.

PE Will Move General Office

FREDERICK (AP) — Potomac Edison Co. is going to move its treasury and accounting departments in Frederick and its general offices in Hagerstown to a new general office building just outside Hagerstown.

Employees in both cities were formally notified by letter Friday. Company President R. G. MacDonald of Hagerstown said the new general office would be about 2½ miles south of Hagerstown on the Downsville Pike. It is expected to be open by 1962.

There will be 225 to 250 employees in the new building, including 73 from Frederick.

MacDonald said the general office in Hagerstown has been so badly overcrowded that it has been necessary to move several departments to rented quarters in recent months.

Two Die On Md. Highways

By The Associated Press

Maryland's highway death toll for the year stood at 408 Friday as accidents claimed two more lives.

The total compared with 416 a year ago.

The victims: Joseph Reinhart, 17, of Baltimore, who was killed on Church Hill Road near Bel Air Thursday night.

Pharmacist's Mate 3.C. Noel I. Herpich, 21, of Washington, who died when two cars collided at the intersection of Ardmore Road and George Palmer Highway in Prince Georges County Thursday night.

State Police said Reinhart was thrown from the car when it went out of control and overturned. Two other occupants tried to flee from the scene, police said, and one was taken into custody for questioning.

In the Prince Georges County accident, police said the crash occurred when one car was making a U-turn.

Herpich's wife, Irene, was taken to Prince Georges County Hospital with multiple injuries. Her condition was listed as critical. Two occupants of the other car also were in critical condition.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You've never had THIS problem before —so sharpen your wits and give yourself a toughie.

I was dialing my friend and got a wrong number. The voice on the other end was charming, cultured and interesting. I couldn't bring myself to hang up. Neither could he. We chatted for about 20 minutes and he asked for my number. I refused to give it, but promised to call him again "some time." I called him the following night, and twice since.

I confess I'm infatuated with this person although it sounds insane. He says he's 25, unmarried, college educated, gainfully employed and we are of the same faith. I'm 21, two-year college girl, living at home and bored with the local coffee-house drabs. What shall I do?—WRONG(?) NUMBER

DEAR WRONG(?) NUMBER: If you two are of the same faith, a ideal place to meet is in church. Suggest that he bring a friend or a relative along, and you do the same. If he agrees it's worth the shot, if he refuses he's a wrong number and should be promptly disconnected.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother-in-law buys something for my husband Oswald every time she goes downtown. It wouldn't be such a problem if she paid for these items herself, but she charges everything to us. He has dozens of pairs of socks that he hasn't worn, boxes of shorts and undershirts, and handkerchiefs still in the original boxes. We have a tough time making ends meet and I break my neck to stay within a budget. Last month I paid out $27 on unnecessary haberdashery. When I suggested to Oswald that he ask his mother to stop this business he said "She's my Mother and I can't insult her."

Why does she do these things and is there a way I can put an end to it without setting off a war?—OVERSTOCKED

DEAR OVERSTOCKED: Mama "does these things" because she fancies Junior her little boy, and takes delight in pretending that he still depends on her.

Since you can get no cooperation from Oswald, simply tell Mom that your bills are getting out of hand—no fault of hers, of course, you just can't resist buying—so you're closing all charge accounts. Then close 'em.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a fellow 17 and that letter about girls phoning guys just to yak, hit pretty close to home. Here's how it looks to the guys who get called.

About four or five nights a week I get called by one or two girls. Sometimes three. It's not flattering, it's embarrassing. My folks give me a knowing look and I get shook and hate to go to the phone.

The girls who call are usually silly and sometimes I can hear their folks yelling for them to get off. The same girls phone a certain clique of guys and the fellows talk about it. They are considered sort of cheap.

There are only one or two girls I really enjoy talking to. They NEVER call me. I call them. A WORD TO THE WISE

DEAR WISE: Thanks for The Word. I hope it comes through loud and clear.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1960, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

Shyness Easily Hides Behind A Controlled Voice

If you suffer from shyness, be she became excited. The problem encouraged by the experience of a girl I'll call Barbara Baker, who just a few months ago had the most acute case of shyness I've ever seen. Today she can speak to the largest audience without a trace of nerves.

Barbara is an attractive girl—and intelligent. Yet at the time she enrolled in my self-improvement school, she was so unsure of herself that the cat seemed to get her tongue every time she should have spoken up!

When Barbara came to New York, she took a position as a secretary in a large advertising agency. Not being content with an "inside" job, she started the personality-building program that put her on the stage, last week, as commentator at an important fashion show.

I sought her out after the show to offer congratulations on the change that had come about. Barbara reminded me how she used to lose her voice whenever

Khrushchev Claims He's Atheist But Often Quotes Bible

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The world's strangest Biblicist, Nikita Khrushchev, ended another visit this week, and he's still reeling off scripture.

He says bluntly that he doesn't believe in a deity, and he disavows all supernatural aspects of religion.

Yet this dedicated atheist, this Communist master of a global anti-God ideology, can't seem to keep the age-old, hallowed phrases off his lips.

"I attended church school as a boy," he says. "I won a prize from the priest for knowing the Gospels by heart."

It might be that this early training immersed his subconscious and vocabulary in Biblical allusions and proverbs. Or it might be that the religious references stem from some motive of expediency.

"The devil," wrote Shakespeare "can cite Scripture to his own ends."

Whatever the case, both in this country and abroad, the Soviet premier-time and again laces his comment with Bible quotations, stories and illustrations.

"You may say that I personally am an atheist," he affirms.

Yet he refers repeatedly and favorably to Christ, and his language often is sprinkled with words such as "soul," "blessing," "spiritual," "heaven," "hell," "god," "sacred duty" and "the devil."

"If you look into our philosophy, you will see that we have taken a lot of Christ's precepts, regarding, for instance, love for one's neighbors and others," Khrushchev says. "Such is our aim."

Curiously, this trumpeter of mass technological regimentation also uses regularly the simple pastoral imagery of the Bible, metaphors drawn from animals, the crops, the weather, earth and sea.

Borrowing one of Jesus' parables about the sower whose seed fell both on stony and good ground he uses this picture in insisting to the United Nations that his government is working for peace and friendship among nations.

In upbraiding a New York news-woman for allegedly writing unfair stories about him from Moscow, he told her: "Despite this,

I do not harbor any ill will, and in fact, when the Communist heaven is established, I will say to God: 'Let her in. She misunderstood us.'"

Arguing that his country advocates peace, he quoted one of the Ten Commandments, "Thou shalt not kill." And in soothing over a spat, he said: "The Christian religion tells us to forgive trespassers of others."

Of his religious usages, Khrushchev himself says, "I am speaking in the name of my people and among them we have representatives of all faiths."

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—It hasn't reached the stage of a battle or a suspension—but Victoria Shaw does not want to do "Homicidal"—and Columbia wants to keep her in producer William Castle's thriller. Reluctantly, Victoria showed up at the studio to discuss the picture with Castle but made no bones about not wanting the part of the heroine. I believe Bill would let her out—but it's up to the Columbia executives.

Meanwhile, the picture nears its starting date with up and coming Glenn Corbett just set for the male lead. He's the hot boy around Columbia these days after "All the Young Men" and "The Mountain Road" and Sam Briskin thinks "Homicidal" will make him a star.

Don't know whether John Wayne wanted to keep it a surprise or not. But word is out that his ABC-TV show beaming November 14 is stolen clock, stock and "Alamo" by 96-year-old John Nance Garner, former vice president and now senior citizen of Texas.

While Duke was shooting "The Alamo" in Bracketville, Texas, many distinguished guests visited the set—among them Mr. Garner, still as sprightly as a Texas grasshopper.

In a rare question and answer session with reporters who forgot movie stars to flock around him, Mr. Garner expounded on his philosophy of life, politics and Texas. Duke caught the whole thing on "tape"—and it's touted as the highlight of his program.

Although Jack Lemmon's parents have been divorced for many years, both are heading for New York for the opening of Jack's play "Face of a Hero" on October 20. Should be a sentimental curtain-time for Jack who has always been a devoted son to his parents. And, a romantic evening with his girl friend Felicia Farr also in the audience.

About the play—it's getting a going over following just so-so reviews at the Philadelphia tryout. This is the stage version of a TV show of the same name Jack did a couple of years ago which was on the confusing side even then. But I hear the re-write is taking out the kinks.

Those who had seen Patricia Medina and Joe Cotten in public, knew there was a romance, and were sure a wedding was in the offing. But no one knew it was to be so soon. That's why only a few close friends of Pat and Joe's were in on the secret that they were to be married at the David Seiznick home next Thursday.

Joe and David have been friends for a long time—ever since Joe was in so many of the Seiznick movies. It was David who flew to Rome to be with him when Joe's wife Lenore died there last January.

With the end of the year close at hand, the race for the Oscar "possibility" pictures and performances are coming fast to get under the wire for 1960. Several top pictures—"The Alamo" and "Exodus" are still to be viewed as I write this—but looking back, I'd like to predict the following stars and players will make the nomination lists:

The women: (not in the order named) Greer Garson in "Sunrise at Campobello"; Doris Day in "Midnight Lace"; Shirley MacLaine in "The Apartment"; Jean Simmons in "Spartacus"—who will be the fifth star?

The men: Spencer Tracy and Frederic March in "Inherit the Wind"; Trevor Howard in "Sons and Lovers"; Burt Lancaster in "Elmer Gantry"; Jack Lemmon in "The Apartment"; Sir Laurence Olivier in "Spartacus"; Peter Finch in "Man With the Green Carnation."

Supporting actors, both men and women: Shirley Jones in "Elmer Gantry"; Shelley Winters and Burl Ives in "Let No Man Write My Epitaph"; Janet Leigh in "Psycho"; Peter Ustinov in "Spartacus"; and Juliet Prowse in "G.I. Blues". The awards are six months away, but the race is heating up.

Oral Contract Is Enforced By Circuit Court

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris handed down an opinion yesterday in Circuit Court under which an oral agreement between Wanda Lee Sanders and her late grandfather, Loren H. Chaney, is specifically enforced.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Sanders against Courtney C. Chaney and others to enforce the oral contract.

Judge Harris said that the complainant, Wanda Lee Sanders, entered into the pact with her grandfather, who agreed to make a will leaving her the home at 11 Weber Street upon payment by her of $2,000 to his personal representatives.

The grandfather died February 14, 1958 and left $6,000 in personal property and the aforesaid parcel of real estate. He is survived by Courtney C. Chaney, a son; Vernie F. Davy, a daughter; Weltha P. Markwood, a daughter; and Grace M. Wotring, a daughter.

Loren H. Chaney died intestate and Courtney C. Chaney and Grace M. Wotring qualified as administrators of the estate. Grace M. Wotring is the mother of the complainant.

Wanda Lee Sanders was reared by and lived with her grandfather and continued to live with him for five years after her marriage to Carroll K. Sanders. She and her husband then left the residence of the grandfather and lived elsewhere for three years before the grandfather grew weary of living alone and asked if he could come and live with the couple.

There was testimony that the grandfather said he would stipulate in his will that he would leave the Weber Street property to them upon payment of $2,000 to his personal representatives.

The grandfather was 81 years of age and lived with the Sanders couple for three years to the time of his death. They provided him with food, shelter and medical expenses and cared for him during the last years of his life.

"Since I am convinced that the complainant, Wanda Lee Sanders, in this case is entitled to relief prayed upon presentation I will pass a decree declaring valid and enforceable the contract entered into by the complainant and the grandfather. And if the complainant pays the sum of $2,000 into court a trustee will be appointed to convey the property at 11 Weber Street," Judge Harris ordered.

Local College Students Speak At Press Meeting

Judy Wilson and William (Bill) Brown, this city, both of Frostburg State Teachers College, are scheduled as speakers at the Columbia Press Association's 26th annual meeting in New York.

The meeting began Thursday and continues through Sunday. Both Miss Wilson and Brown are graduates of Fort Hill High School, class of 1957, and are seniors at Frostburg State where they are majoring in teacher education.

Miss Wilson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Wilson, 630 Brookfield Avenue, and has held the editorship of the college yearbook two years. She is preparing to teach on the junior high school level in the area of mathematics upon graduation in June. The title of her address in New York is "A Dynamic Editor At Work."

Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Brown, 516 Ridge-wood Avenue, and has been business manager for the yearbook the past three years. Recently he was commended by state auditors for his outstanding work in business management. The subject of his talk will be "Practical Tips for Business Management of Yearbooks."

Brown is married to the former Miss Jeannie Eichner. She is also a member of the yearbook staff, serving as senior editor for 1960-61.

The Frostburg yearbook, Nemacolin, was entered in national off-set competition for schools of education in New York and was awarded third place in its division yesterday, according to an announcement by the association.

Presbyterian Men's Caravan Tomorrow

The Men's Club of the First Presbyterian Church will sponsor its annual Autumn Leaves Caravan Sunday.

This year the caravan will go to the new state park on Deep Creek Lake. Cars will leave from the church at 1:45 p. m. and travel to the park via U. S. Route 40 to Grantsville, then turn left onto State Route 495 and to the park. On the return trip the caravan will go by U. S. Route 219 to Keyser Ridge and then on U. S. Route 40 to Cumberland.

The two routes selected will provide some of the finest scenery in Western Maryland. It is planned to have a devotional service at the park and refreshments will be served.

Those who need transportation for the trip should contact the church office.

Local Unitarians Will Meet Sunday

The Cumberland Unitarian Fellowship will meet tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. at Central YMCA, with Miss Sandra Dillard, 722 Gephart Drive, as hostess.

The meeting will feature a recording of a sermon, "What Unites Us," by Rev. Lon Ray Call of North Nassau (N.Y.) Unitarian Church.

Youths Are Fined

Two West Side youths each were fined $5 in Police Court yesterday on charges of discharging firearms within the city limits.

The boys were picked up Thursday afternoon after a complaint was received at headquarters. In assessing the fines, Magistrate Paul W. Barnett pointed out the threat to life and property by careless handling of firearms.

ment and frequently wound up being strapped.

Root Of Trouble
By exercising great patience showing Tommy she cared about him, coaxing the principal into giving him some authority as a member of the safety patrol, discovering a major cause of his tantrums—inability to handle multiplication tables—and getting him to "help" her teach the tables to others weak in the same area, the teacher made a new boy out of Tommy.

All this started in September, said Prescott, and by Thanksgiving the seventh-grader was so changed that he had actually fallen in love and even asked the teacher to help him pick out a present for his new romance.

Who was she?
"A girl in the eighth grade," said Prescott.

Attempts Made To Enter Local Business Places

Someone attempted to break into Levin's Tailor Shop and the Cumberland Loan Company, both on North Mechanic Street, late Thursday night or early yesterday, city police said.

Captain James E. Van of the Detective Bureau said the culprit was unsuccessful in gaining entrance to either business establishment.

He said the rear door of the tailorshop had been tampered with and a window had been removed from the rear of the loan office.

Local police received complaints yesterday morning after the business places were opened for the day.

Methodists To Mark Laymen's Day Here

Laymen's Day will be observed tomorrow during the 11 a. m. service at Trinity Methodist Church, Rev. Louis L. Emerick, pastor, announces.

Joseph Wagner, who will be in charge of the devotional, will be assisted by Alan Reuschel, who will read the Scripture lesson and give an interpretation of Laymen's Day.

Paul Flick, assistant coach at Fort Hill High School, will speak on "Always Be Ready." The congregation will join in special prayers of confession and prayers for the church, and the senior choir under the direction of Warren Shumaker will present special music.

Sentence Suspended On Larceny Charge

Ronald Hare, 19, of Elizabeth Street, was given a suspended sentence of six months in the House of Correction at a hearing yesterday before Magistrate Paul W. Barnett on a petty larceny charge.

Hare was arrested yesterday by Capt. James E. Van after the youth was identified as the person who stole a wallet from the purse of a Cresaptown woman while she was bowling at a downtown establishment. The theft occurred October 3, according to Capt. Van, who said Hare threw the wallet into a catch basin after removing the money. Only a small amount of cash was in the wallet, which reportedly contained valuable papers and cards.

Oldtown Firemen Extinguish Blaze

Six members of the Oldtown Volunteer Fire Department, headed by Fire Chief Russell Crabtree, extinguished a brush fire on Pack Horse Road, four miles from Oldtown, about 5:30 p. m. yesterday.

The Oldtown volunteers were on the job about an hour and 15 minutes. The fire, which burned an area about 10 by 50 feet in size, was concentrated in an old log. There was no damage.

Chief Crabtree announced last night that the volunteers will begin Monday collecting coin cards which have been in the Oldtown area homes about three months. About 300 of the cards have been distributed.

A Special Day For Your Newspaperboy

Domestic politics, fireworks in the United Nations, sports results, your favorite comic strip, and what your tax rate's going to be this year. These are some of the things brought to you every weekday through this newspaper, thanks largely to a youngster somewhere in his teens. He's the newspaperboy-salesman who sees that the paper gets to you each day.

Once each year, we have National Newspaperboy Day, which means nothing to the boys themselves except that some little attention is paid them. Today is the date selected for this year's observance, and it seems appropriate to make some brief comment on the occasion.

First of all, a newspaperboy is a boy — a teenager. In many ways he's much like all others of his age. He's not an adult, yet he has in a small way accepted the responsibilities of an adult. Your newspaperboy is not a delivery boy working for a stated wage and performing his duties routinely. On the contrary, he's a businessman — an independent contractor who buys newspapers at a price agreed upon in advance, and sells them at a profit. This means he's in business for himself. He has to keep records, buy his papers each week, and see to it that he makes his collections regularly and carefully enough that his business shows a profit.

Second, a newspaperboy, like all other people, is an individual. Each boy has his own way of going about his work, and each derives something different from it. Many take advantage of their opportunities so that, besides learning about the dollars-and-cents aspects of their business, they get to know a great deal about people. It's valuable training for the future. To recite a long list of outstanding men who once were newspaperboys would be to belabor a point that already is well known.

Keeping these things in mind as the nation observes National Newspaperboy Day today, we see that these young businessmen perform a service that is practically essential to a modern community.

These Days

Do Svidanie

To Khrushchev, one gladly says, "Good-bye, do svidanie." He came; he saw; but he did not conquer. Not a single measure that he proposed passed the General Assembly of the United Nations. He made his strongest stand on the admission of Red China to the United Nations. Had he been able to win the new African countries to his program, Red China would have been admitted. Khrushchev returns to Moscow empty-handed. This is a serious matter for any politician.

What clearly was bothering Khrushchev was first, that no dramatic explosion occurred to startle the world at the moment of Khrushchev's arrival in New York. There was no Sputnik; no man was shot to the moon or to Mars. Somehow let Khrushchev down. Or perhaps, after the U-2 completed the photographing of Russian installations, there is no further need to try to scare us.

President Eisenhower's conduct bothered Khrushchev no end. So far as the Government of the United States is concerned, no one knew that Khrushchev was here. Of course, the New York City police protected him excessively but beyond that there was nothing. He had not come to the United States; he had come to the United Nations.

The President correctly had nothing to say to the man who wants to bury us. He left that to Cyrus Eaton and David Susskind. No American official greeted him at any point.

Khrushchev, the head of state, the diplomat had difficulty keeping in the news; Khrushchev, the clown, had no difficulty at all. He spoke from a balcony like Mussolini used to do in Rome. He took a walk on the sidewalk of Park Avenue like Harry Truman, except that Harry Truman needs no police escort. He thumped the tables in the United Nations like a small boy in a tantrum, but after a while, nobody noted that except in disgust. He went on the Susskind program and lied without sense.

Surely, it was a wasted effort. Khrushchev had brought together the heads of many states to make a show of his power. It was the largest assemblage of rulers in history. But they made little impression because Khrushchev overwhelmed everybody.

He stole the stage. Usually Nehru of India gets top billing but Nehru was no match for Khrushchev in stealing the center of the stage. The whole business was an exercise in futility.

However, it did disclose one fact—a tremendously significant fact. Soviet Russia now seeks to destroy the United Nations and will do it by whatever means are available. In this session, Khrushchev failed but he disclosed his hand. Stalin held fast to the doctrine that the small nations amounted to nothing. He respected but disliked the United States. He regarded Great Britain as decadent and France and Germany as no longer significant.

Khrushchev makes a play for the small nations only because in such a body as the United Nations, they have the votes. Apart from that, he is contemptuous of them. Had he succeeded in killing off the United Nations, he would not be forced to submit to the black-mail which both Soviet Russia and the United States may be forced to accept during the next years.

The African countries, in particular, have an enormous advantage in that they have votes to offer to the highest bidder. Had Khrushchev succeeded in killing off the United Nations, the African countries would have no role to play at all. And even such a country as India, despite Nehru and Krishna Menon, would amount to very little in world affairs and would be forced to turn to either the United States for defense against the Communist countries or to Soviet Russia for protection against Red China.

As it is, Khrushchev will have to explain his failure to his own President, and to the Red Chinese with whom he is feuding. Mao Tse-tung suspects Khrushchev of hankering for the non-socialist high standard of living of the West. Mao does not need an improvement in the lot of his people. He feels that he requires a chauvinistic expansion of territory to the Chien Lung line which was the widest expanse of Chinese territory under a Chinese dynasty. (The Mongols are not Chinese but conquerors of China.) Such an expansion would include not only Indian but Russian territory.

As Khrushchev must go home empty-handed, what can his explanation be?

'Well!'

Lyndon Johnson And The Southern Prospects

By Joseph Alsop

EN ROUTE WITH LYNDON JOHNSON

On this Southern safari with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the striking feature is the demeanor of the local Democratic leaders who turn out to greet their Vice Presidential candidate. The confidence of these men is restored, their party spirit is renewed.

Consider, for instance, the immensely astute Sen. Herman Talmadge of Georgia, one of the few remaining real state bosses in the U. S. Initially, Talmadge was outraged by his party platform and extremely cool to his party's nominees. Even today, he continues to denounce the platform. But he is now going all out for Sens. Kennedy and Johnson, and he predicts that Kennedy and Johnson will carry Georgia by a generous 60-40 margin.

A similar case is the new power in Florida Democratic politics, Governor-designate Farris Bryant. Bryant began by threatening to enter pledged electors, in order to spare Floridians the painful choice between Sen. Kennedy and Vice President Nixon. But he too is all out for the ticket today, in just the way that Talmadge is.

Furthermore, Kennedy's stock has risen visibly in Florida. The Democrats are making no claims as yet about this state which they once considered hopeless. But Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall has privately admitted that the most recent Republican opinion tests show the Democrats running ahead in Florida by a narrow margin.

Altogether, the Democratic prospects in the South have immensely improved in the last month, at least in the opinion of the men to whom Sen. Kennedy has deputized control of his campaign in this region.

Just about every member of this Southern strategy group is on the Johnson safari. Thus it is possible to give the Democratic high command's current inside estimate of the way the Southern states will vote this year.

In brief, only two states are still conceded to Nixon. These are Virginia and Oklahoma, with a total of 30 electoral votes. The Southern states where Nixon is still considered to have an even chance are Florida, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Kentucky, with a total of 39 electoral votes. But the improvement of the Democratic outlook in Florida is less impressive than the recent improvement in Tennessee. If Kennedy wins these two states in the end, he will gain 21 electoral votes from the bloc of states where Nixon is thought to have a reasonable chance.

In the solid-for-Kennedy category, are the main deep Southern states, Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, and Louisiana, with 41 electoral votes. Kennedy can also count on Mississippi's eight electors, if their votes go to anyone but Jefferson Davis.

Finally, the pretty-sure-for-Kennedy group of states comprises North Carolina, Texas, and Maryland, with 47 electoral votes.

From all this, the Kennedy strategists for the South conclude the Democrats can reasonably count on the 75 Southern electoral votes which Kennedy told the Southern Governors' Conference he "needed." And they further believe they can reasonably hope for close to 90 Southern electoral votes, and perhaps some more.

There are three things to be said about these forecasts. To begin with, the Democratic strategists may of course be wrong. Republican Chairman Hall thinks they are. He admits a Democratic margin in Florida, which the Democrats themselves do not claim. But Hall has also counter-claimed large Republican margins in Texas and North Carolina, for example, where the Democrats think they are ahead. Second, however, if the Democratic strategists are anywhere

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

TOO EARLY? — There is a good-body of opinion in Washington, both official and diplomatic, that believes the United Nations General Assembly meeting this year should have been postponed until after the Nov. elections.

That the Eisenhower administration considered this and then rejected the idea is now a matter of record. It is also true that the General Assembly meetings in 1952 and 1956 were postponed, although at the request of other governments.

Such a postponement this year would have robbed Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev of the opportunity to inject his own brand of irresponsible statesmanship into the supercharged campaign atmosphere in the United States.

There is no doubt now that one of Mr. K's objectives in coming to American shores at this time was to carry on a kind of diplomatic shenanigans under circumstances which he hoped would prevent the White House from effectively countering them.

That he has failed in this does not detract from the fact that his effort has made the cold war grow colder.

It is also pointed out that our intelligence leaders must have known that Khrushchev needed some kind of world stage to regain the prestige he lost in the U-2 spy plane incident and the subsequent scuttling of the Paris summit meeting last spring.

Postponement of the General Assembly would have denied this stage to him, at least until after the United States' own domestic campaign crisis had passed.

As it is, Khrushchev has materially weakened the structure of the United Nations by his threats and bluster and has made it that much more difficult for the next President, whoever he is, to find an avenue to real peace.

Nixon, Though A Quaker, Doesn't Hold To Pacifist Tenets Of Faith

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — A great deal has been said and written about the religion of one Presidential candidate, very little about the religion of the other. Perhaps this is because Vice President Nixon belongs to a very tiny religious minority, the religious society of Friends, which has only 125,000 members in the United States against around 45,000,000 Catholics.

The Friends, better known as Quakers, have already put one of their faith—Herbert Hoover—in the White House. And many Quakers are concerned over the fact that the only two Quaker candidates for President have found themselves running against Catholic candidates, which automatically has put them in a position of opposing a Catholic in the White House.

Quakers don't like to be put in this position, first, because they are proud of their record for religious tolerance; second, because they too have been discriminated against in the past; third, because they recognize that they are just as controversial as any religion and more so than most.

Since I happen to be a member of this faith, perhaps I can report on some of the controversial beliefs of the Quakers and the question of whether they might influence a Quaker President.

Nixon And Pacifism

The No. 1 question asked about Richard Nixon, as a Quaker, is whether he would hesitate to declare war, if war became necessary. Many people, remembering that several thousand Quaker conscientious objectors went to jail in World War I rather than serve as combatants, understandably raise the question of Nixon's position were he to become Commander-in-Chief.

In this respect it should be noted that members of the Society of Friends, while universally condemning war, are now divided regarding the question of combat service, once their country has entered a defensive war.

Second, many Quakers consider Mr. Nixon anything but a strict doctrinaire when it comes to pacifism. They recall that during the Indo-China crisis of 1954, Mr. Nixon, addressing the American Society of Newspaper Editors let drop the word that American troops would be sent to the mainland of Asia to combat the Chinese Communist army. From the tenor of his talk it appeared that he approved of this important military move.

It turned out that this step had been urged by Adm. Arthur Radford, but was opposed by other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, notably Gen. Matt Ridgway, and that Eisenhower finally overruled the course his Vice President said was about to be taken.

The majority of Quakers disapproved of Nixon's position at that time. But regardless of whether he was right or wrong regarding Indo-China, he certainly did not let his religion interfere with his position as a government official.

Nor has he seemed unduly influenced by the tenets of the Quaker faith during his current scolding of Senator Kennedy for saying that the United States should not risk war by defending Quemoy and Matsu. Nixon in this instance has gone considerably further than either President Eisenhower who stated in October 1958 that the islands "as of themselves are not greatly vital to Formosa," or John Foster Dulles who simultaneously said that the islands were not "strategically defensible."

Nixon And McCarthy

Another tenet of the Quaker faith is regard for their fellow

men. And while Quakers have no monopoly on this belief, many of them cherish and try to practice the teachings of George Fox, founder of the faith, who was imprisoned in England in the 17th Century for preaching the use of love and courage and free speech in their battles with the English crown.

Feeling deeply as they do regarding the dignity of their fellow men, many Quakers were shocked at the position Richard Nixon took in persecuting Dr. Edward Condon, director of the Bureau of Standards; Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas, when he ran against her for the Senate, and for siding so steadfastly with Senator McCarthy during his years of tramping on human rights.

One Quaker, Mrs. Elizabeth Babcock of Locust Valley, N. Y., could not believe, in view of Nixon's close affinity with McCarthy that he was really a member of the Society of Friends, so she queried the Friends committee on national legislation in Washington. The reply came back that Nixon was a member of the society, but was regarded as "completely unscrupulous." In order not to be unfair to Mr. Nixon, however, the Friends Council said that it was sending a copy of Mrs. Babcock's letter, together with its reply to Nixon's home in Whittier, Calif. The reply from Whittier concurred with the previously stated opinion of Mr. Nixon.

This, however, was in 1952 when Nixon was first running for Vice President. An inquiry at the Whittier meeting last month brought the reply from Donald E. Shively, clerk, that "Richard M. Nixon is a member in good standing in the East Whittier monthly meeting, and has never, to my knowledge, been rebuked by this meeting."

Many Quakers will vote for him. Many will not. For Quakers are an individualistic, argumentative people. It is said that wherever there are two Quakers you will find three opinions—unpopular to some, sometimes right, sometimes wrong, and often unattainable.

And the only thing I can report for certain is that while many of them will disagree with what is written about them in this column, all will champion its right to be written.

'Year Of The Polaris'

By John Crosby

"They do look like the doors of doom," said Edward R. Murrow to Adm. Raborn as he watched the little steel trapdoors pop open on the Polaris-bearing submarine, George Washington, with a malevolent squeak. These are the doors out of which the hydrogen bomb-bearing Polaris will — we devoutly hope — never have to issue and those were the opening words on the program called "The Year of the Polaris."

The closing words: "The Polaris means power — deterrent power. If it's ever fired, it'll have failed its purpose. Good night and good luck." Well, we sure need the luck.

Close to the opening, Adm. Rickover, the father of the atom-powered submarine, says: "The Nautilus is a new weapon as revolutionary today as the airplane in its day." In its own way, "The Year of the Polaris" is as revolutionary a form of journalism as the Nautilus is revolutionary as a weapon. Both took long planning and both took great faith.

For instance, the Polaris-bearing submarine was first planned before the hydrogen bomb problem had been licked, before solid fuels had been invented. Before breakthroughs had to come before it would work and yet the submarine went forward, anyway. Similarly, the program was being filmed and planned before it was known whether there would be any Polaris and consequently before Ed Murrow and Fred Friendly knew whether there would be any program.

This not only takes great faith, planning, money, competence, and confidence, but also a new technique which is becoming an art form in itself. You might call it the marriage of the big picture — the Admirals talking strategy — and the little picture — a couple of seamen, holding their breath while the first Polaris is fired.

The Polaris-bearing submarine is a breakthrough which will seriously affect not only the military thinking of both the free and Communist worlds but world diplomacy almost everywhere. That's a very large story indeed and it could easily have been done on that level alone. But to do it on the very realistic level and also on the human level is a great achievement and a great breakthrough in its own way in the field of journalism.

You're Telling Me!

A Pakistani woman is accused of swiping jewels from all 27 men she married. The puzzling thing about all this is, how did she manage to meet so many rich guys?

Contaminated Soil Spreads Skin Infestation

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Creeping eruption is a common skin condition in the southeastern and gulf states. Dermatologists in this area see as many as 50 cases a year, especially among those working in contaminated soil. The condition is caused by certain hookworm larvae that have been expelled from the intestinal tract of infested cats and dogs.

The first sign of invasion is a tiny, pimple like spot at the point of entry. The parasite stays here for a few hours or days and then burrows under the skin like a mole beneath the ground. A tortuous or circular path on the skin, extending from the original dot, indicates the line of march. The creeper travels 1/4 inch a day.

Migrating hookworm larvae produce intense itching which at times is infuriating. The victim may be unable to sleep until thoroughly exhausted. In addition, the area surrounding the route of travel may become swollen and infected, obliterating the lines and masking diagnosis.

The hands and feet are involved most frequently because they come into contact with the infested soil. Most of the victims are farmers, gardeners, construction workers, and children. One of the most severe cases occurred in a man who covered his body with damp infested sand at the beach.

There are no specific remedies although antimony preparations seem to work best. Freezing the skin with carbon dioxide snow or ethyl chloride may stop the worms in their tracks.

Children who eat soil contaminated with larvae of other worms experience a different syndrome involving migrating organisms. Larvae from cats and dogs develop into mature worms when the eggs hatch on reaching the intestines. They penetrate the wall of the bowel and travel to other internal organs. The critters wander aimlessly for months doing only slight damage to the structures in which they settle. Meanwhile, the child has fever,

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Eugene O'Neill's father James was a great matinee idol in his day, and starred for years in "The Count of Monte Cristo." He was standing in the lobby of a Washington, D. C., hotel one day when a man stepped up to assure him, "I admire your acting, sir. I intend to see you perform this evening." O'Neill politely brushed him aside, then asked the doorman, "Who is that fellow who just spoke to me?"

The doorman answered, "President McKinley."

Wilson Mizner, recalls Boyce House, was one of the most colorful figures in Alaska's gold-rush days. Mizner broke three front teeth on a frozen doughnut — also the night someone stole the only typewriter in town and sold it to the butcher, who thought it was a cash register. "Tragedy struck," reported Mizner, "the day the thermometer went down to 69 below zero. The president of the bank bent over to tie his shoe, and froze at that position. He died of brain in that position. He died of brain in that position. He died of brain in that position."

Murtaugh

Danny Scores Clear Victory Over Hemus

Gets 127 Votes

To Solly's 66 On Writers' Ballots

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Danny Murtaugh, the leader of Pittsburgh's first world championship team in 35 years, Friday was named National League Manager of the Year for 1960 in the annual Associated Press poll.

Murtaugh scored a clear victory over Solly Hemus of the St. Louis Cardinals in the balloting by 193 baseball writers. The Pirates' pilot collected 127 votes while Hemus collected the remaining 66.

Murtaugh, 43, completed his third full year as the Pirates' boss the past season. He took over from Bobby Bragan on Aug. 3, 1957. He steered Pittsburgh into second place in 1958, but the team dropped to fourth in 1959.

His 1960 Pirates were tabbed for fourth place in The Associated Press preseason poll. However, with help from a sustained batting attack which made effective use of the hit-and-run, a tight defense and good pitching, Murtaugh brought his club home seven games ahead of the Milwaukee Braves.

The Pirates clinched the pennant, their first since 1927, on Sept. 25, a week before the end of the regular campaign. The Series triumph over the New York Yankees was their first since 1925 when they beat the Washington Senators in seven games.

Murtaugh, a native of Chester, Pa., played the infield for Philadelphia, Boston and Pittsburgh of the National League, closing his big league career as an active participant in 1951.

Hemus made a fine managerial comeback, piloting the Cardinals to third place after a seventh place finish in 1959—his first as a major league manager.

SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sports of all sorts:

Syracuse reaches the crossroads in defense of its national football championship against Penn State Saturday. "If we make the same ball-handling errors against Penn State as we did against Holy Cross (15-6), we'll be run off the field," but even a one-point defeat for last year's title-winners probably will make certain there'll be a new college champ this fall.

Ever wonder how those modern concrete-embedded goal posts get hauled down by fans after a game? "certain West Virginians, hoping for an upset at Pittsburgh Saturday, are travelling to the game equipped with back saws to do the job—just in case."

Yankee Catcher Yogi Berra, a man of many outside interests including a soft drink concern and a bowling emporium with partner Phil Rizzuto, has joined a bowling outfit which is opening a chain of alleys, latest in the chain, on Long Island, is under the direction of ex-fighter Rocky Graziano.

American Bowling Congress reports the boom in that sport has prompted the booking for reservations to the 1961 ABC tournament at Detroit at a record pace. Reservations are 1,000 ahead of last year at this time.

Jimmy DeMaret, recently named to the Professional Golfers Association (PGA) Hall of Fame, is the only PGA touring pro ever backed by a distillery. "and in his early days, playboy Jimmy did considerable personal public relations for his 'firm'—once, as Jimmy came up to the ninth green during a tournament, a reporter asked, 'how you doin', Jim?'" DeMaret replied with his usual grin, "in at 4 (a.m.) out in 40."

The sad state of boxing at Madison Square Garden is reflected by a new policy starting Saturday night—ladies free with each paying male customer, even as in the hinterlands. Saturday night is the big night out in the big town and the Garden figures the only way to get the guys is to let em bring their dolls. "Jorge Fernandez and Denny Moyer, billed as boxing's 'handsomest pair,' meet in the windup."

Showers Predicted For Gold Cup Race

CHICAGO (AP)—A field of nine was named for the $100,000 added Gold Cup at Hawthorne Saturday and the threat of an "off" track enhanced the chances of a wide open race.

Should predicted showers fall, the strip could be sloppy and this hardly would be to the liking of such handicap stars as T. V. Lark, Kelso, Dotted Swiss and On-And-On.

Market Posts Grood Gain In Fairly Heavy Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market helped itself to another hefty gain on average Friday with virtually every section of the list moving higher on fairly heavy turnover.

The bloom on the market's current rally faded only once this week—Wednesday—but brokers blamed this on a lack of interest growing out of the Columbus Day holiday and a crucial World Series baseball game.

The Dow-Jones industrial stock average closed the week at 596.48 up 4.99; rails stood at 127.62 up 0.19; utilities at 94.19 up 0.42 and 65 stocks up 1.25 to 198.38.

With the industrial average less than 5 points below the 600 level, most analysts expect any upside action to encounter some rough going. The vaulted resistance level, so formidable on the downside earlier this year, is expected to perform the same function in reverse.

Brokers quickly credited the market's current strength to a generally improved news backdrop. Rail freight carloadings showed a good gain on the week, auto production is in a steady uptrend and the steel outlook is beginning to take on a rosier hue.

Steel issues, depressed in recent weeks on the failure of their industry to make any production headway, responded promptly to reports of a possible price boost in the year and chances of an order pick-up in the weeks ahead.

Grantsville Man Dies Of Head Injury

Willard Beeman, 39, Fatally Hurt While Unloading Truck

A 39-year-old Grantsville man who was injured in a freak farm accident September 27 died yesterday in University Hospital, Baltimore.

Willard Beeman, a laborer, sustained a head injury while unloading concrete blocks from a tractor-trailer on the farm of Melchoir George, Keyser's Ridge.

The man was taken to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland and later was transferred by ambulance to the Baltimore hospital, where he died at 5 p. m. yesterday.

Tfc. Donald R. Wade said Mr. Beeman was helping Mr. George unload the blocks which were to be used in the construction of a barn on the farm property.

The tailgate of the truck had been propped up with a seven-and-a-half-inch pipe. While the men were unloading the blocks, Mr. George's cows were coming in from pasture.

While passing by the truck, one of the cows knocked the prop from under the tailgate, which struck Mr. Beeman on the head. The accident occurred about 4:45 p. m.

A native of Thayerville, Mr. Beeman was born on August 17, 1921, and was a son of George and Mary Jane (Bittinger) Beeman of Grantsville.

Body Of Man Is Found In Yough River

The body of a 63-year-old former local man was found yesterday afternoon in the Little Youghiogheny River about 300 yards west of the B&O Railroad tower in Mountain Lake Park.

Claude Ernest Twigg, authorities said, had self-inflicted slashes of his wrists and throat. The time of death was set about noon. He was reported to have been seen in the area earlier in the day.

Sheriff James Frantz of Garrett County said he received a call about 2 p. m. from the tower after crewmen of an eastbound freight train noticed the man's body in the water. The sheriff said no knife was found near the scene.

An initial investigation was made by the sheriff and the deputy county medical examiner of Garrett County. The man's body was sent to Memorial Hospital here, where an autopsy was performed.

When he lived in Cumberland, Mr. Twigg was employed as a used car salesman. The sheriff said the man had been staying in a nursing home at Mountain Lake Park.

Authorities said the man committed suicide by cutting his wrists and throat, then jumping into the water.

A native of Cumberland he was born on January 10, 1897 and was a son of the late Levin and Orlena (Nicely) Twigg.

Surviving are a son, C. Curtis Twigg, two sisters, Mrs. Charles Sowers, Mrs. Julia Leasure, and two brothers, Riley Twigg, all of Cumberland and George Twigg, of LaVale, and a granddaughter. The body was taken to the George Funeral Home.

Seven Seniors Commended

Seven seniors from three high schools in Allegany County have received letters of commendation for outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test given last spring.

These students include Caroline R. Lusby and Jane C. Sammel, both Allegany; Roseann J. Weber, Diane E. Hill and Kathryn F. Skitaric, all Fort Hill, and Philip E. VanNewkirk and Donald E. Zarefoss, both Beall.

"Letters of commendation are being awarded to some 20,000 students throughout the United States in recognition of their excellent performance on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test," according to John M. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

"While these bright students did not reach the status of semi-finalists in the 1960-61 merit program, they are so outstanding that we wish to single them out for special attention. The semi-finalists and commended students together constitute less than three per cent of all high school seniors and this certainly signifies noteworthy achievement," he concluded.

WILLIAM STEINBERG

Season Begins For Symphony At Pittsburgh

Now that the Pittsburgh Pirates have closed their best baseball season in 35 years by capturing the World Series, the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, which draws its fame from other quarters, opened its 1960-61 season last night.

William Steinberg, the world-famous music director of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, led the 90-man ensemble for the first time this fall last night. A repeat concert is scheduled for 3:10 p. m. Sunday at Syria Mosque, located only three blocks from Forbes Field.

Mr. Steinberg and his famous orchestra will appear here at the Fort Hill High School auditorium on Tuesday, October 25, in a program sponsored by the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company.

Some 22 local organizations are selling tickets for the concert here, which will benefit their community service projects.

The Pittsburgh Symphony director, who has held his present position since 1952, was born in Cologne, Germany. By the time he was 10 years old he had become a recognized violinist; at 15 he was hailed as a pianist of real stature, and at 19 he had become a conductor of extraordinary talent, having won the coveted Wullner Prize.

In 1958, Mr. Steinberg astonished the musical world by becoming music director of two major symphony orchestras on opposite sides of the Atlantic Ocean. He was serving the London Philharmonic Orchestra and the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra at the same time.

But this time, during the annual convention of the Maryland State Teachers Association, they're on the receiving end of the sales pitch.

And most of the pitching is done, tastefully and in subdued "soft sell" tones, from hundreds of exhibit booths honeycombing the armory basement just a spillover's distance from the towering State Office Building.

If you have the time—and the stamina—you can wander among the booths for hours, learning about the latest classroom aids from art materials to zithers.

Smiling representatives stand beside their colorful displays, ready to tell you how your youngsters would be better off using these books, maps, typewriters, slide and film projectors, sewing

A fourth judge for the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland, which embraces Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties, would be assured by a favorable vote November 8 on Constitutional Amendment No. 11.

Proposed Amendment No. 11 would add a fifth judge for Montgomery County and would increase from three to four the number of judges in the Second and Fourth judicial circuits. The amendment specifies that there shall never be fewer than four judges in any judicial circuit.

The second and fourth circuits are the only ones now having fewer than four judges. The Second Circuit, on the Eastern Shore, involves Caroline, Talbot, Queen Anne's, Kent and Cecil counties.

For nearly 65 years Allegany County has two sitting judges. That tradition began on May 3, 1893, when A. Hunter Boyd was appointed a judge, and ended on March 17, 1958, when George Henderson retired upon reaching the age of 70.

Garrett County, which never had a resident judge before 1954, was assured one when a constitutional amendment was approved by the voters of Maryland in November 1954. So the Fourth Judicial Circuit had four judges from the time former State Senator Neil C. Fraley of Oakland was appointed after the 1954 election by the then Governor Theodore R. McKeldin.

Another State Senator, D. K. McLaughlin, of Hagerstown, was appointed judge in Washington County about the same time by Governor McKeldin. Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris of Cumberland has been a Circuit Court judge since shortly after his election in 1950.

Fourth Judge At Large

If Amendment No. 11 is ratified, apparently Governor J. Millard Tawes can appoint a fourth judge for this circuit from any of the three counties. Washington County is now the most populous of the three with 89,237 inhabitants, according to the 1960 census. Allegany County dropped to 82,834, the most recent head count showed.

Of the other three amendments to be considered today, all are of state-wide significance. No. 9 concerns the effect of vetoed bills. The State Constitution has provided since 1950 that any bill

Absentee Vote Application Deadline Near

October 18 Is Last For Civilian Action

Time is fast running out for the registered voters of Allegany County who will be out-of-state on election day, November 8, to apply to the County Board of Election Supervisors for absentee ballots.

Tuesday, October 18, is the last day for civilians who will be out of Maryland on election day and for ill persons under the care of a physician to apply for absentee ballots, according to John R. Kelly, Democratic registrar and chief clerk of the County Board of Election Supervisors.

Those who are too ill to go to the polls to vote must apply by October 18 but the doctor's certificate attesting to their illness need not be filed with the Board of Election Supervisors for another 10 days, or October 28.

Service personnel have until October 28 to apply for absentee ballots. They need not be registered but wives of service personnel outside of the state must already be registered in order to apply for an absentee ballot. The October 28 deadline also applies to the wives.

The oddity about the absentee provisions established by state law is that a voter must be outside the state. In other words, a student attending West Virginia University at Morgantown or Pennsylvania State University at University Park would be closer to Cumberland than the student from here attending the University of Maryland at College Park. Yet the WVU and Penn State students could vote by absentee ballot, but not the student at College Park.

Mr. Kelly reported this week that the applications of about 400 persons for absentee ballots have been approved by the Board of Election Supervisors. They were about evenly divided between servicemen and civilians.

Professor Outlines Two Basic Rules

BALTIMORE (AP) — Children have something like a built-in radar which tells them "whether a teacher really cares about them," an educator told his colleagues Friday.

And if she doesn't care, added Dr. Daniel A. Prescott, she'll find that trying to teach a youngster anything is an uphill fight, even with all her new-fangled methods, audio-visual equipment and other paraphernalia.

"The first rule for a teacher is to care about children," Prescott told a departmental meeting at the convention of the Maryland State Teachers Association. He is professor of education and director-emeritus of the Institute of Child Study at the University of Maryland and addressed about 600 elementary school teachers.

Cites Case History

Take the case of Tommy, said Prescott.

When this 12-year-old came into the seventh grade, his new teacher got the word from the sixth-grade teacher: "He's the most difficult boy in school. He hasn't turned in a paper during his entire stay in the fifth and sixth grades and is always fighting with the other boys."

Tommy had been doing poorly in spelling, reading and arithmetic. But, despite his failure to turn in papers, he had a satisfactory record in other subjects and was especially good in music.

Prescott gave a detailed account of how Tommy's new teacher took an interest in him—"probably the most significant single thing a teacher does."

"It is perceived directly by the child," he said.

The second rule

The teacher then followed the second rule of good teaching. She worked "to know enough about the youngster to receive him as a person instead of just a member of the classroom."

There's a little detective work involved in this, Prescott implied: "it takes skill."

But the teacher traced much of the boy's problem to a dictatorial step - father who assigned him tasks around the house, then belittled his attempts to perform them well.

Tommy rebelled at this treatment.

Firemen Show Equipment To Students Here

Tools of the trade were demonstrated by members of the Cumberland Fire Department this week during Fire Prevention Week visits to local schools.

The most dramatic part of the visits were demonstrations of the way the department's 85-foot aerial ladder truck can be used to evacuate burning buildings.

The fire fighters also showed students how such equipment as life nets, gas masks, power saw and portable light plant are used during fires.

At each school, Fire Inspector Edward Trost stressed what students should do in case of a fire in school or at their homes and how to turn in a fire alarm.

The first thing, he said, is to get everyone out of the burning building and to make a double check to see that all are present after occupants reach safety.

The next is to turn in a fire alarm, preferably from the nearest fire alarm box. If no box alarm is near, the fire should be reported to the fire department by telephone.

Firemen said it is generally better to have a neighbor phone in the alarm, or to turn it in from a neighbor's phone, since one's phone may be put out of service by the blaze.

They said the box alarm is preferable to a phone call, since it is faster and there is always a chance that in the excitement, a telephone message can be garbled.

It was also stressed that the person who turns in a box alarm should remain to give exact directions when firemen arrive.

The visits were made to Johnson Heights, Pennsylvania Avenue, John Humbird, Mt. Royal, S.S. Peter and Paul, and East Side schools.

Garrett County will be represented by County Commissioners Carl A. Schell, Fred G. Glatfelter and Elra F. Glatfelter, State Senator Bernard I. Gonder and Delegate Elza E. Bray and Leslie E. Savage.

Only Delegate Lester B. Reed of Allegany County and Delegate Elbert E. Buckel of Garrett County will be unable to attend.

Many Participate In Name Contest

Considerable interest is being shown in the contest to select a descriptive name for this section of the Alleghenies.

The contest, which closes today at midnight, is being sponsored by the tourist and convention committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

The winner will receive a round-trip ticket for two on the first flight of the new air service being planned to Baltimore-Washington, and $25 in spending money.

Brotherhood Plans Election Tomorrow

The nomination and election of officers of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. (EST) during a regular meeting at the Labor Temple, South Liberty Street.

After the meeting refreshments will be served, according to Walter R. House, secretary-treasurer, who urges all members to be present.

Crafts Will Meet

The Building and Construction Trades Council will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Allegany Labor Temple.

New Series Helps Tab Hunter To Bounce Back

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Tab Hunter?

Some Hollywood people still say the name with a big question mark. You know, like they once said, "Sonny TUFTS?"

TAB HUNTER

But unlike Sonny Tufts, who never recovered from his Hollywood nightmare, Tab Hunter keeps bouncing back in movies ("The Pleasure Of His Company") and television (the new weekly "Tab Hunter Show").

Tab keeps his chin up and his skin thick and members of the "Who Needs Tab Hunter Club?" keep getting outvoted. He shrugs off the question mark and goes on—it's been 11 years now—with no worries about what some people think of him and with no great illusions about himself as an actor.

He's an "I Don't Care" boy who says:

"Being an actor is like being a little sick. The work isn't important because tomorrow or the next day there will be someone else. It's just that I enjoy acting. But if there's an end to it, it won't be the end of the world for me."

The new TV comedy series, in which Hunter plays a fun-loving bachelor, is an about-face from his boy next door movie roles.

Earlier on TV he did another about-face, starring in "The Jim Piersall Story" on Climax and playing a Russian spy in "Forbidden Area" on Playhouse 90.

Trying to prove himself as an actor, which he did in those two performances, later meant walking out of a Hollywood studio contract.

Since then his career hasn't exactly been in high gear. But he says leaving Warner Bros. studio and winning his freedom as an actor was a fateful decision.

The fan magazines, rather than the roles he played, projected the "Hollywood image" of Tab Hunter as the physical type surrounded by screaming teen-agers. But for the fan magazines he is grateful.

"I was so lousy in my first movie (1949) that I couldn't get another job for a year. The fan magazines kept me alive."

But after "Battle Cry," which won him the award as "the outstanding new personality of 1955" in the first Annual Audience Awards Poll, there was a change of opinion about him.

He's grateful to brilliant actress Geraldine Paige, who once told him:

"When you hear someone say you are a product of Hollywood and inadequate as an actor, say to them, 'That's your bad taste.'"

Not so grateful is Tab Hunter to TV's David Susskind, self-appointed president of today's "Who Needs Tab Hunter Club?"

It was Susskind who gave him a big role in his live version of "Meet Me In St. Louis" and who then tried, says Tab, to sign him for another show, "Billy Budd."
